

'35 AUTO DEATH TOLL ESTIMATED AT 35,500

Approximately 500 Lives
From Last Year.

CHICAGO, Dec. 27.—(P)—The nation's 1935 traffic deaths were estimated at 35,500 today by the National Safety Council.

This would represent a 1.4 per cent drop—or 500 human lives—from 1934's all-time high of 36,000.

R. L. Forney, the council's chief statistician, predicted his reckoning for the whole of 1935 on the premise that a sharp downward trend evidenced in November would carry through December.

He disclosed 3,269 persons died as a result of motor vehicle accidents in November—a surprising 12 per cent decrease from the 3,710 of November last year and the greatest slump of the year.

Forney counted 32,140 deaths in the first 11 months of 1935—a 1 per cent reduction from the 32,463 tabulated in a similar 1934 period. The drop was registered while gasoline consumption figures indicated a 6 per cent increase in auto travel.

The council spokesmen, asserting newspapers were devoting more space to auto accidents than to news in any other single category, accorded them much credit for the improved record.

The council has enlisted 41 states, the District of Columbia and 66 cities in a campaign to force a 7 per cent reduction in traffic fatalities in each of the next five years. It will start January 1 with main reliance placed on the uniform application of tested methods.

Fourteen states have cut their motor vehicle deaths 7 per cent or more during the first 11 months. The states and the percentage of their reductions are: North Dakota 22; Massachusetts and Mississippi 19; Rhode Island 18; Oregon and Delaware 13; Illinois and Montana 12; Utah and Minnesota 11; Florida 9, and Oklahoma 7.

For the first 11 months these cities led their population classifications in safety: Milwaukee 10.7 deaths per 100,000 residents; Providence, R. I., 7.7; Fall River, Mass., 4.7; Oak Park and Evanston, Ill., 3.2; Tucson, Ariz., zero. Tucson was the largest city in the country without a fatality this year.

$3,482,535 BEQUEST TO RED CROSS BARED

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—(P)—Clara A. H. Smith, who died March 15, 1934, left $3,482,535 to the American Red Cross, according to a transfer tax appraisal filed today.

The bulk of the net estate, which was valued at $4,498,655, was in United States Liberty bonds. The total charitable and public bequests amounted to $3,773,694.

Public Figures Differ on Defense, Letters in Institute Poll Reveal

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—General William Mitchell, U. S. A., retired; Bruce Bliven, editor of the New Republic; Norman Thomas, socialist leader, and William Green, American Federation of Labor president, have interesting and to some extent conflicting views on the subject of appropriations for army, navy, air force—on which a nationwide poll has just been completed by the American Institute of Public Opinion.

Letters from General Mitchell and Bliven to Dr. George Gallup, managing director of the American Institute of Public Opinion, were made public here today.

"Neither I nor anyone else can answer intelligently a question confined to the 'proper' size of the American military equipment," Bliven said. "That in turn depends upon the national policy one advocates. I advocate a national policy of willingness to abandon any and every American possession, right or privilege in international trade and investment that threatens to bring the United States into war."

"If this policy were pursued we would have an army, navy and air force limited strictly to national defense, and by national defense I mean defense of the continental United States. This would probably mean a vast decrease in the navy. What it would mean in the way of coast defense, army and air force I do not know."

General Mitchell said in part: "There is no air force in the United States. . . . We have the most poorly organized system of national defense of any of the great countries of the world. . . . Airplanes can cross the Atlantic and Pacific oceans at this time. Our cities and vital areas are directly open to attack."

After checking his ballot, "would seem to call for some increase in the navy and air forces."

"It is my opinion that the army, navy and air forces should be maintained on a basis that would secure adequate defense."

Thomas declared the United States already possesses "ample forces to defend our shores in so far as military defense may conceivably be necessary."

There is little likelihood, he indicated, that any other powers, in the present world situation, could attempt an invasion of this continent.

After checking his ballot for "smaller" appropriations in each category, Thomas wrote:

"Our present rate of military appropriations, to say nothing of an increase, is a menace rather than an aid

Brazilians Call With Lusty Hiss; 'Thank You' Results in Food Loss

Hearty Embrace Required to Properly Greet or Speed a Guest; Men Are Served First; Five Meals Eaten in Average Home.

This is the 57th of a series of articles on South American travel by the Rev. Henry Edward Russell, of McDonough, Ga.—Editor's note.

UBERLANDIA, Minas, Brazil, Nov. 7.—Queer customs in all lands attract the eye of the traveler. Some are so strange and foreign as to demand special attention even though they are seen time after time.

Brazil has full quota of these queer customs and practices. Here are a few.

To call someone to attention is not necessary or customary to call or even whistle, simply hiss. Friends hiss, and acquaintances hiss children and children hiss parents, in fact everyone is hissed at one time or another in Brazil.

When a visitor comes to a house and desires to be recognized he does not knock or ring the doorbell or ring the doorbell—a doorbell is a rare article here. Instead he stands before the door and claps his hands as he would a drum, or bows from his favorite prima donna.

What a Country! The Brazilian embrace is justly world famous. To properly receive a friend or guest, male or female, or to depart from the same a hearty embrace must be exchanged. In some cases this embrace has been modified to one of a hug, given simultaneously with a vigorous pat on the back.

When a Brazilian wishes to wave goodbye to a departing friend he makes the same motion you would make if you wanted someone to come to you. To call someone to him the Brazilian waves goodbye. This practice can be very confusing.

At the table it is proper etiquette to serve the men first and the ladies last. Also, if you care to refuse a dish that is offered, you say "obrigado," which means thank you. My companion missed a wonderful steak by a lapse into American courtesy with this Portuguese word, Latin America.

American spoken of as lacking the courtesy and respect that is in the struggle against war. We ourselves are not sure what we are defending—our shores or our trade. How can we expect other nations to know?

For in our record one that receives from the Japanese and other enemies the confidence we ourselves profess in our peaceful intentions."

In Atlanta the results of the American Institute's nationwide poll—including Sunday's report on the national defense issue—are published exclusively in The Constitution.

There is little likelihood, he indicated, that any other powers, in the present world situation, could attempt an invasion of this continent.

After checking his ballot for "smaller" appropriations in each category, Thomas wrote:

shown women in other western nations. It has been noticed here that not only are the men served first but they are seated first and we have seen women get up to let men have their seats. This principle is even found in the Portuguese language where every noun is either masculine or feminine.

The absence of a neuter gender creates innumerable difficulties for anyone who attempts to learn to speak the language. In listing a group of nouns the masculine nouns must be listed first and the feminine second.

To increase the confusion, the female that the word for pants is a feminine noun while a type of skirt is masculine! This along with other irregularities make the language that is nearer ancient Latin than any other, very difficult.

Cake Served First. Odd dietetics—cake has been served as the first dish of the first meal of the day. Five meals a day is a good average for the Brazilian housewife and this almost perpetual preparing and eating food is an important factor in the youthful old age of many of them. Bananas and cream are considered as poison and to drink ice water immediately after hot coffee or tea is to flirt with death.

On the farms we find that it is customary to milk only once per day and at this milking they tie the hind legs of the cow together with a piece of cord to insure a more or less stationary base of operation. Also the calf is tied to the front leg of the cow. When a Brazilian housewife buys a piece of meat she hurries to hang it in the sun rather than to put it in the icebox. This may be explained by the fact that refrigeration of any sort is almost unknown except in the cities.

One Shoe at a Time. Many people go barefooted; the climate permits it the year round without any discomfort from the cold. A few many wear shoes but the queer sight is to see people walking about with one foot bare and the other in a shoe. It was explained that these one shoe pedestrians were wearing only one shoe at a time so as to make the pair last longer. So long as one shoe is worn it is supposed that the wearer is able to buy a pair of shoes and his "face is saved"—though his feet may suffer—as he goes in and out among his neighbors.

In hotels the key to your room is never left at the desk—try to find the desk—but it is hung on a hook provided for the purpose out in the hall. It is permissible to loiter about the hotel in pajamas and night shirt. Leaves are taboo outside of one's own room.

Captain Allen Rites Held. Members of the fire department paid final honors at services yesterday to Captain E. T. Allen, veteran member of the department, who died of pneumonia in the line of duty. Captain Allen was next to the oldest member of the department in years of service. Burial was in Great Lawn cemetery and pallbearers were Chief W. Butler, Captain Harry Joyner, Captain J. N. Lagomarsino, J. O. Hall, A. B. Rogers and John Peel.

Well, unfortunately, Atlantans are assured of just that. In 1934 a total of 65 persons fell victims to careless drivers, while so far this year the list of casualties has mounted to 71, with four days still to go before the gray hand of death writes finish to its work of 1935. And after that—next year, and the next. The slaughter continues. Worse it grows.

Worse Than Epidemic. If a disastrous epidemic hit Atlanta and Georgia and wiped out the lives of a number of people, every agency available and every individual would immediately set to work and use every possible means to combat it. It would be on the tongue of every man, woman and child and the list of remedies would be left untapped. Every individual would acquaint himself with the methods of prevention and would practice the greatest caution against the dread malady. No "council" would be needed to make the people realize the havoc which was being wrought before their eyes.

By the slaughter by careless drivers is worse than any fatal epidemic. The black plague was no doubt horrible, but the plague of recklessness makes it seem mild to those who are acquainted with the blood, records inscribed by careless driving. It is worse than an epidemic because, instead of responding to treatment, it grows worse and worse each year. Suppose Atlantans were assured of the fact that around 70 people would be killed in the city each year, like the victims of the Mikado's sword. People would feel a bit squeamish, not knowing but what the capricious and whimsical hand of death would strike them down next.

Safe Driving Pledge

In the interest of accident prevention and safer conditions on the highways and in co-operation with the Safety Council of The Atlanta Constitution, I am making the following pledge:

1. To drive at moderate speed and on own side of road.
2. Not to pass cars on curves or hills.
3. To stop at stop signs.
4. Not to jump traffic lights.
5. In city traffic to be particularly watchful for pedestrians stepping into the line of traffic from parked cars.
6. Always to give hand signals showing my intention of turning to the left, to the right, or stopping, and not to leave the curb from a parked position without giving a signal.
7. To be fair to other drivers in all respects and to refrain from reckless driving.

The Safety Council of THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

Fill out and mail this pledge to the Safety Council of The Atlanta Constitution, inclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope for return of windshield stickers.

Death Toll of Careless Drivers In Georgia Continues to Increase

Many Atlantans are living in the chill fear of death this morning as the terrifying and unending slaughter by careless drivers continues to mount. Striking home is the realization of the danger of the deadly fangs of a poisonous snake, the hand of death works with an appalling swiftness that takes human life before the pitiful victims are aware of its approach.

Sign Pledge Today. If you have not become a Safe Driving pledge signer, do not wait until tomorrow. The Safe Driving rules are no good to you after you are carried to a hospital or a funeral home. Elsewhere in this issue will be found a Safe Driving pledge blank. Clip it out, sign it and mail it to the Safety Council, Atlanta Constitution, with a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Display those attractive red and white pledge signers or stickers which will be sent you on the front and rear windows of your car to remind yourself that an accident can ruin your life and to alert others that another campaign has joined the fight against the worst plague of all time.

Those correct traffic signals shown in the above drawings are the courteous motorist's salute to his fellow drivers. Their use shows the driver is not too lazy or thoughtless to save himself and others from the damage to life and property which so often is the result of their omission. It is only common decency to use them.

MAYOR KEY TELLS JURORS OF MERGER. Grand Jury Hears Benefits Outlined; Police Department Also Discussed.

Mayor Key appeared before the Fulton grand jury yesterday to discuss the city-county merger proposal and on matters pertaining to the police department.

He said he reiterated his previously announced arguments for the consolidation of Atlanta and Fulton county governments, but he would not say what he had told the grand jurors concerning the merger proposal.

However, the current grand jury has not gone into the police situation extensively and few, if any, persons have been questioned on this subject so far as is known.

The grand jury indicted a number of persons yesterday for liquor violations, but the bills of indictment will not be returned in open court, as required by law, until this morning, when a superior court judge will be available.

The mayor said he told the grand jury that he favored the county-city merger "because it will save the taxpayers money."

VARIETY SAYS JAFSIE IS READY FOR STAGE. NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—(P)—"Now available for personal appearances in vaudeville or motion pictures theaters."

"Most enigmatic, colorful and widely publicized personality in America."

With that advertisement in Variety, the theatrical magazine, Dr. John F. Condon, the elderly "Jafsie" of the Lindbergh kidnapping case, was launched today as a vaudeville trouper.

The energetic intermediary in ransom negotiations with the mysterious "John," however, was not exactly a beginner.

The notice mentioned that the retired educator already has "played to terrific grosses" at theaters in Boston and Lynn, Mass.

BIG INCREASE NOTED IN BUILDING IN EAST

Total for First 15 Days in December Is Placed at $138,383,400.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—(P)—L. Seth Schmittman, chief statistician of F. W. Dodge Corporation, said today the striking improvement in construction during December is easily the most significant development on the business horizon.

Total awards for all classes of construction in 37 eastern states for the first 15 days of December reached the highest level of any comparable period since early summer of 1931.

The total as reported by the Dodge Corporation for the period was $138,383,400.

Schmittman pointed out that while the improvement was attributable to a large extent to an accelerated pace in the federal WPA and PWA programs, the continued gains in private home building were also a factor. These advances were all the more important, Schmittman stressed, inasmuch as they occurred "at a season of the year when it is customary for activity to decline."

"But disappointment probably awaits those who herald the coming of a residential building boom which will rival even the balmy days of the 1920's," he concluded.

CALIFORNIA TO PERMIT NUDITY IN RELIEF ART. SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 27.—(P)—Paintings of nudes on government art projects won't be barred in California.

Joseph P. Danahy, regional director of federal projects for unemployed artists, said the state would not follow Illinois' lead in forbidding such works.

"But then," he commented, "it's very cold in Illinois—compared to California."

L. S. C. IS CENSURED FOR LONG INFLUENCE

American Legal Association Says 'Far-Reaching Political Coercion Prevalent.'

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Louisiana State University, referred to by the late Senator Huey P. Long as "my school," was censured today by the Association of American Law Schools for "far-reaching political influence" attributed to Long's rule.

The association adopted a sharply worded report of its executive committee which said "it is true that death has removed the personal influence of Huey P. Long, but added it was 'by no means sure that a successor to his ambitions and influence may not arrive.'"

After lively debate the association directed the censure at the entire university, singling out particularly the law school toward which an attitude of "anxious solicitude" was adopted.

"Dismissed Without Cause." "Whatever confidence your committee has as to the future of the college of law of Louisiana State University rests principally on the fact that Senator Long is dead," the report said.

Criticism was directed at the "forced" retirement of former Dean R. L. Tullis of the law school, outspoken opponent of Long; Long's "interference with athletics," and the resultant resignation of the football coach Lawrence (Biff) Jones; and the suppression by President James Monroe Smith of the Revelle, student newspaper, for remarks unfavorable to Long.

The committee said it found students were dismissed from the university "without proper cause," participating in the Revelle affair.

Investigating Board. Members of the executive committee who investigated the university and signed the report, were Dr. H. H. Harris, Dean of Tulane University, Law School and president of the association; Hershel W. Arant, Dean of Ohio University Law School; M. R. Kirkwood, Stanford University; Wilbur H. Cherry, University of Minnesota; and John M. Maguire of Harvard University.

The university president declined to comment, but Dean Frederick K. Beutel of the law school defended the college against the charge of political influence and said the wrongs complained of had been righted.

He said the college board of administrators have passed resolutions providing for faculty control and improved administration and that "there is no political influence there now." He added that the school "perfect shape" and would welcome an investigation by the association every week.

FOUR AUGUSTANS FINED IN SIGN CONTROVERSY

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 27.—(AP)—William K. (Billy) Barrett, representative in the state legislature from Richmond county and nationally known as a bridge player, pleaded guilty in police court today to attempting to chop down an advertising billboard which has been the source of a civic controversy here.

Barrett was placed on probation under a fine of $90 or 100 days. Three other men who accompanied Barrett to the billboard were given similar sentences.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 27.—(AP)—Georgia's chief farm crops in 1935 had a value of $159,038,000—the greatest since 1930.

The Georgia crop reporting service, operated co-operatively by the United States Department of Agriculture and the State College of Agriculture, said the estimated 1935 valuation of chief crops was greater than the $157,866,000 for 1934, and the "greatest for any year since 1930, when estimated value reached $179,422,000, and is 137 per cent above the 1932 figure of $69,039,000, which was the record low for recent years.

"With few minor exceptions production of Georgia crops in 1935 showed increases over corresponding output of 1934," the report said.

These increases ranged from 3 per cent with peaches to 115 per cent above last year for tobacco, with a number of the other crops above as follows:

"Cotton and cottonseed, 9.5 per cent; corn, 13.3; small grains, 13.4; sweet potatoes, 12.5; watermelons, 55.4; peanuts, 18.2; hay, 8.5; cowpeas, 22.4; pecans, 0.5, and sugar cane, 47, 41.1."

Value of most major crops was slightly under 1934 figures, but tobacco leaped in value from $6,107,000 in 1934 to $12,923,000.

BEER, WINE TAXES AID CITY COFFERS

$45,000 Collected This Year; Increase Is Predicted in 1936.

A prosperous year in city revenues was forecast for 1936 by City Clerk J. Henson Tatum, yesterday with records showing $45,000 income from beer and wine license sales helping drive collections past the expected $377,000 mark already reached.

Wine dealers paid license fees only during the latter half of the present year while 1936 licenses will be paid for the entire year. An increase in the number of beer and wine license sales is also predicted.

Under the city tax ordinance, the fee for retail beer dealers is $10 annually and $50 for wine retailers, with both licenses being issued to a single outlet for $120.

Patrons of a poolroom over the store escaped through a rear window when flames from a fire cut off their exit by the stairway.

NEW DEAL OPPOSITION

SHOWS GAIN IN POLL

29 States Against F. D. R. Policies, 12 Favor in Latest Returns.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—Opposition to the New Deal, in 41 states gaining 82 per cent over last week, stood at 53.51 per cent today in the Literary Digest poll on the "acts and policies" of the Roosevelt administration.

"Tabulation of 987,158 ballots, the magazine reported, showed 29 states ranged against and 12—Utah and 11 southern states—in support of the President's policies. Votes favoring the New Deal were counted at 409,527 against 577,631 votes opposing it.

The 29 states which are voting against the New Deal in the latest tally are said to represent over 52 per cent of the total population of the country and to have given the President nearly 83 per cent of the total vote which he received when he was elected.

Nearly Complete

"With only seven more states to be heard from," the magazine states in its current issue, "the 10,000,000-ballot poll is rapidly filling up the blank spaces in the state-by-state tally."

"The magazine also has tabulated reflects increased interest in the poll as the 1936 presidential campaign hits a faster beat.

"Once again, the New Deal shows a loss.

"Twelve states are showing majorities for the New Deal, while 29 are opposing it. But what the other seven states still to be heard from will register, and what the final vote in the 41 already represented will be, still is a question.

Seven States

"The seven other states yet to be represented include Vermont, Maine, Delaware, Nevada and the giants, New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

"The magazine also has tabulated reflects increased interest in the poll as the 1936 presidential campaign hits a faster beat.

"Mississippi is strongest for the New Deal, with a majority of 73.07 per cent. Massachusetts is most strongly opposed, with an unfavorable percentage of 79.88 on the fairly substantial basis of 40,533 votes.

VANDENBERG ASSAILS REAL RELIEF POLICY

Senator Says Administration Used Money for Unau- thorized Projects.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(AP)—With the Florida ship canal project as an example, Senator Vandenberg, republican, Michigan, charged the administration used the $4,000,000,000 work relief funds as a "springboard" for projects unauthorized by congress. "I protest this loose and unorthodox method of mortgaging tomorrow's tax resources," Vandenberg said in

Vandenberg said the nation soon would discover that the works fund had been utilized to "commit the government to many enormous projects often without any direct warrant from congress, which will further multiply these billions before the last prodigious check shall have been written."

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

A LITTLE SATURDAY TALK.

A few more days, and the New Year will be with us, and I think this would be a good time for many readers who have "always intended to make a scrapbook" of our stories to start doing so.

In my travels, I have gone to schools in many places, and I have found that thousands and thousands of readers already have scrapbooks. Teachers and pupils say that a great deal of help for topics is obtained by saving the stories.

The same thing is told in letters which readers send to me. The letters contain statements like these: "My scrapbook helped me to get a better mark in history."

"I had to get a topic about ancient Greece, and when I looked in my scrapbook I found just the right story."

"My school class is keeping a Corner scrapbook, and it helps the pupils in geography and general science."

On any day of the school year, we may have a story which will fit with the work of boys and girls in a certain grade, but not in other grades. That is why it is well to save all the stories. Sooner or later, each story is likely to prove useful at school.

Many readers buy scrapbooks at stores, paying from a dime to a dollar, or even more, for them. Those which are sold at some stores for a dime are rather good ones.

Others use old books which are not needed any more, as an arithmetic

Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.
Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondents should give name and address in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: My husband and I lived very happily until my mother-in-law came to live with us two years ago. I have listened to her troubles and misfortunes day in and day out since that time. She was sick when she arrived. I nursed her back to health, took her to the doctor everywhere I went with the result that she talked me into a nervous breakdown. I simply cannot stand complaining and she certainly can't do it. Children never do to suit her. She stays on their trails. She has an income and each month she spends a third of it on herself. She has a pen on any of my family. Board and room have been free to her, yet she never says to my hard-working husband: "Here is a little check, my son." I have had to work hard for my family and do her work in addition. I am now under the care of a doctor in consequence. My husband is as good as gold to me. I always come first with him and I don't want to hurt him but I do feel that I should tell my mother that I am not able to care for her any longer. Don't you think I am right?

DAUGHTER-IN-LAW.
Answer: If your mother-in-law has income sufficient to pay for her board and keep elsewhere there is no reason why you should feel the necessity of nursing her at your home, provided, of course, that you and your husband can agree on a plan to ease her out. Since he is as good as gold to me, I always come first with him and I don't want to hurt him but I do feel that I should tell my mother that I am not able to care for her any longer. Don't you think I am right?

It is a question which might be most pitiable, the plight of a sickly, spoiled old lady who lives by suffering and with her son and his wife, or the plight of the son and his wife who have all day, listen to the old lady's symptoms and tries for duty's sake to swallow what only affection would make palatable.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.
Dear Miss Chatfield: I have been engaged for five years. In this time we have had several bust-ups and just as I was getting to the point of enjoying other dates he would step up and run the boys off. He is moody, silent and at times cruel. He not only objects to my having boy-friends but he resents my girl-friends too. If one of my friends is at my house he ignores her. If he passes me walking with a girl he asks me to ride and makes it so plain that he doesn't want to ride with me. If he hears I have had a date he comes and accuses me of everything mentionable. What is the opinion of the predicament I am in? Can this thing ever work out for happiness?

TROUBLED.
Answer: Why any girl in her right mind can enter to such a cad and play with the thought of signing up for life sentence to him is a mystery. Five years of close acquaintance has revealed the fact that he is incapable of considering anybody but himself. Given time he will alienate every one of your friends, smother your spirit, and make you rue the day you were born. The meanest man is sweet as pie when he has everything his own way, but what self-respecting girl wants sweet pie at such a price?

There is as much hope of happiness in that relationship as there is for the proverbial snow-ball to keep size and shape in Hades. A selfish, surly, snarling, suspicious suitor will make a husband of the same sort with all his contemptible traits raised to the nth degree. A man who shows tendency toward cruelty when he is courting a girl will put the torture screws to her properly once she is his wife.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

NANCY PAGE

Nancy Stands on Chair, Falls, and Breaks Her Arm.

By FLORENCE LA GANKE.

If you could have seen Nancy hurrying around during holiday week, you would not have been surprised to learn of her accident. But even at that hurried and tired as she was there was no excuse for the stupid thing she did. It was rather early in the morning. Nancy wanted to take down some curtains for the laundress. She hopped up on a chair, the chair slid out from under her, and Nancy was thrown full force, to the floor, landing on her right shoulder.

Nancy, who was a nurse, and the laundress picked her up called the doctor, who took her to the hospital, where the X-ray showed a double impacted fracture. Her arm was set, bandaged and taped to her side, and home came a much shaken and a more chagrined Nancy. The rest of the day she spent walking the floor. When the pain was too great she took the sedatives which the doctor had prescribed.

In the days which followed she was amazed to discover how little imagination most people have. Peter for instance, would try to be helpful. He would open a door for her, when it was the obvious thing to do, but he never thought to offer to take off a wrap or a glove. He would bring her the newspaper and would forget that she had difficulty turning the pages. Whenever she asked him to do anything he was willing enough, but Nancy grew sensitive about all the help she required, so she fumbled on alone. Once, Peter did tear the pages of the paper for her so she could turn each one individually.

Every one who helped her on with her clothes seemed to forget that the lower part of the arm in the cast could not be joined when skirt bands were adjusted. Nancy did not have a nurse, but when she tossed at night unable to adjust the pillows satisfactorily, hesitating to wake the men, she certainly wished she had a nurse or that she were equipped with a third arm, a "spare," as it were, which could do the shifting and tugging necessary.

"Color in the Bedrooms" is the name of a helpful leaflet when interior decorating is being done. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request. Write Nancy Page, care of The Atlanta Constitution.

Culbertson on Contract

By H. L. CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Justice Really Is Blind.

A curious paradox in bridge is that a slightly off-color bid is apt to be severely punished, while an atrocious bid too often is rewarded. A friend of mine once bitterly remarked that "It was all right with him that God should take care of fools and drunkards, but why should crank bidders get the same protection?" I feel constrained to echo his plaint whenever such a farce as the following has been brought to my attention.
